HONGKONG, DECEMBER 10TH, 1904.

It might have been anticipated that the increase in the production of gold which has taken place of late years from the Transvaal and Klondyke mines would have had some appreciable effect upon the relative values of gold and silver and have tended to raise the range of the silver currencies. So far, however, as it has been possible to form an estimate in the matter, no appreciable effect of this kind has been produced, and the low rates of exchange in the East are still a noticeable feature and have to be accepted as an established fact. It is, of course, impossible to say whether the downward movement which at one time caused so much anxiety, and which has been the subject of so much speculation on the part of financiers and economists, has been to some extent arrested by an addition to the world's supply of gold. Upon abstract grounds, this may fairly be assumed to have been the case, but it is still an open question how far any such result has been brought about; and, what is of more importance, how far it may be looked for in the future. It is to be feared that no very marked effects can be anticipated, though at first sight it might appear that there was some hope in this direction. There is in the first place the fact that the production of silver in many American mines, which has been suspended consequent upon the comparatively low value of the metal, can be resumed at any time when a more favourable state of matters might render it profitable to work these mines again. This in itself would seem to be a hopeless obstacle against any re-adjustment of the relative values of the two metals. As the cost of working the mines must be paid for in gold currency, the more silver that is produced, the sooner must the point be again reached when it will no longer pay to continue the operations. Whatever the amount of available silver may be, there is always this reserve in the background, which will tend of necessity to keep down its value. On the other hand, the value of gold is enhanced by its being still—and being certain to remain—the one stable standard of value among all the most important commercial nations. In France and America, though the names of the current coins are those of silver pieces—in the one case the franc, and in the other the dollar—the standard is in reality a gold one; as the gold value of these coins is fixed; and in Great Britain and most of her Colonies the currency is gold both in name and in coinage. In other countries—the last among them being our enterprising neighbour, Japan—the principle has been accepted that a gold currency is essential to sound commercial operations; and there can be no doubt that wherever it is possible the gold standard will be adopted. Thus there has been, and is likely to continue to be, a constant increase in the demand for gold; and the value of the metal has been enhanced not merely as a consumable article of luxury, but on account of its becoming more and more recognised as the only reliable ultimate standard of value in all commercial transactions. This is in itself a source of great value to any metal. For a long period silver took this position in the East, but it has now been found wanting in stability, and the artificial value which attached to it has departed, while that of gold, as a reliable basis, has been proportionately enhanced. The latter, whether it be more or less used for articles of luxury, dental purposes, gilding, or in other ways, where (a fact which is often overlooked) it is more or less actually consumed, must for many years to come still be the metal always in demand for the purpose of reserves; and so long as it is thus used, its value as compared with other metals liable to more fluctuation must always be maintained.

Silver in the East no doubt stands upon the footing of the ultimate standard of value, but its prerogative in this respect is of a local and limited character, and cannot affect its value in relation to a gold standard, when it comes into contact with it in over-sea commercial transactions. The idea which was at one time in favour of adopting some artificial means of establishing an exchange value of the dollar or the rupee, has of late years apparently been abandoned as impracticable. At least we hear very little in respect of a controversy which was at one time kept up with considerable animation; and it may be taken that the existence of a lower average standard has been accepted as inevitable. Still it cannot be considered that the state of affairs is satisfactory. There is not any security that the exchange has touched the bottom and that there may not be further decline even from the low rates which have ruled for many years past. This state of things must always exist so long as silver remains the medium of commercial transactions; and it will be a long time before it can be hoped that a gold standard in any form will be accepted in China. This would, of course, be the true remedy; but it must be many years before any such change could be brought about, even if China were under a Government much stronger than we can hope to see. Should the Japanese, however, carry out the scheme which it is stated they have in contemplation, of introducing a gold currency, it is not impossible that the Japanese coin would by degrees obtain some kind of foothold as a medium for commercial transactions, and that ultimately the Chinese might find the advantage of following suit and adopting a gold standard for themselves. Nothing short of this would put an end to the silver trouble and the low range of exchange, which has been prevalent for so many years.

Our gallant little friend the Rinaldo, under Commander Wake, will be meeting the junior Baltic Fleet somewhere about the Straits of Babelmandeb. Mr. and Mrs. F. Howell have sent out invitations for friends to be present at the marriage of their sister Mr. Arthur William Hill, of the Supreme Court, at St. John's Cathedral on the 21st December. A reception will afterwards be held at No. 6, Morrison Hill Road. The bride, Mrs. Emily Flora von Reiffenstahl, is a daughter of Mr. Jonathan Howell, of Cambridge. Her brother, Mr. Fred Howell, is head bailiff at the Supreme Court.

A Wuchang despatch states that Viceroy Chang Chih-tung is so very much taken up with Pinghsiang, in Kiangsi province, where are Sheng Kang-pao's coal mines and a short railway to the banks of the Yangtze, as an ideal spot for an arsenal, that in the event of Tieh Liang, the Special Commissioner from Peking, reporting that it is unfit to replace the Kiangnan Arsenal in Shanghai, the Viceroy will himself construct a small arms and ammunition factory and field-gun foundry there with funds from the treasury of the Hukwang provinces.

A Chinese ex-policeman at Shanghai made a practice of going to a native woman who sold lottery tickets, and telling her to take out tickets in his name. If the ticket happened to draw a prize, the defendant claimed the prize money and paid her for the cost of the ticket, but if his ticket lost then he paid the complainant nothing. He imposed upon the woman in this way by threatening to charge her with some offence should she not comply with his demands. The defendant had been in the Police Force eight years and had a very bad record. He was laid by the heels on Nov 30th, and got 300 blows and three months' imprisonment.

The drink habit is spreading among the Burmese, and a deputy Commissioner sententious remarks that "there can be no doubt that the increase in wealth and the raising of the standard of living is producing the usual result in use and abuse of liquor. Western civilisation has always substituted pleasure for happiness, and it is absurd to expect that its effect on the Burman should be different from that on other nations." Silent, sullen toying is rare, but the effect of drink on the excitable Burman provokes him to "break up the convivial party." Cheap moralising on this subject is valueless. If the truth must be told, a something should seal the lips of the evangelist who would restrict the use of alcohol among Orientals while we continue to profit by their devotion to narcotics. The conquest of opium by alcohol may be to some the triumph of the lesser evil. We however should shudder at the result if the Chinese population en masse abandoned the non-crime producing narcotic for the crime-producing liquor. The Burman, however, in the main does not use opium. He will therefore be the reader to substitute the higher class European liquors for the arrack and samshu of the bazaar.—Singapore Free Press.

MORE FIRES.

At about 2 15 yesterday morning a fire broke out in a godown at No. 325, Des Voux Road West, in which general merchandise is stored. The brigade were quickly on the scene, and were not long in quenching the fire. The damage is estimated at $500. The goods were insured to the amount of $19,000 in the Ua On Insurance Company, $5,000 in the Commercial Union, and $11,000 in the Mei Jui Insurance Company. The origin of the fire is unknown, but the godown-keeper said that when he went to bed he left a kerosene lamp burning on a case of goods. The Police are investigating matters.

Another alarm was given in the afternoon from the direction of Wongneichong. The brigade turned out, but discovered nothing more than the burning of some rubbish.

CHURCHES FOR KOWLOON.

SIR PAUL CHATER'S GIFT.

The foundation stone of a new church at Kowloon will be laid next Tuesday. The inscription is as follows:—

This foundation stone was laid by Rev. J. C. Moore, D.D., Bishop of Victoria, December 15th, 1904. This church erected and presented to the Colony by Sir C. P. Chater, C.M.G.

The Government gave a free grant of 67,500 square feet for the church, the site being in Robinson Road, Kowloon, next to the school presented to the Colony by Mr. Ho Tung. It is to be erected at a cost of $40,000; and named St. Andrew's Church. It will be built of red brick. There will be seating accommodation for about three hundred persons. At either corner of the western elevation there will be an entrance, the Baptistry being on one side, and a tower on the other. The columns are of marble.

DR. A. S. GOMES' GIFT.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the laying and the blessing of the foundation stone of a new Roman Catholic Church at Kowloon will take place. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. P. de Maria, the pro-Vicar Apostolic, in the absence of Bishop Piazzioli. The building will occupy a superficial area of about 4,500 square feet, and will have seating accommodation for 600 persons. The length from the porch to the main altar will be 106 feet, while the width of the nave will be 35 feet. The nave is 58 feet long and the main altar and chancel will be 21 feet. There will be three altars; the main one will be dedicated to the Blessed Virgin of Pompeii, and the two smaller ones to St. John the Baptist and St. Anthony respectively. The vestry will be on the left of the chancel and the organ will be placed on the right. The outward appearance of the church will be as beautiful when completed as red brick can be. There will be a tower for the bells. The height of the spire will be about 50 feet. The plan and the design were prepared by Messrs Palmer and Turner, and the total cost of building, which is at present estimated at $23,000, will be defrayed by Dr. A. S. Gomes. It is expected that the church will be ready by April or May next year. The Roman Catholics at Kowloon are very grateful to Dr. Gomes for this generous gift.

WEATHER REPORT.

The Hongkong Observatory yesterday issued the following report:—

On the 10th at 11.58 a.m. The barometer had risen over the Eastern Sea and fallen moderately at most other stations.
A deep depression is passing across Hokkaido from the westward, accompanied by strong winds. Gradients are moderating upon the China Coast and moderate N.E. monsoon will prevail in the Formosa Channel and the northern part of the China Sea.
Forecast.—Moderate N.E. winds, cloudy, fair.

CORRESPONDENCE.

OUT OF WORK.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."]

Hongkong, 9th December.
Sir,—Your correspondent W. Carlyle is in error—I will not use a stronger term—when he states that I refused to help him because he was not in the Sailors' Home. I did not refuse to help him, and if I had done so, it would not have been for such a reason. The fact of the matter is that the need is so far in excess of my means to help that I am often compelled not to "refuse help," but to explain that I haven't the means.

During the past eleven months I have been enabled by grants from the Ladies' Benevolent Society, by donations from friends, and by drawing upon the Church Funds to help men, in various ways, to the extent of four hundred and fifty dollars, and with one or two trifling exceptions these have all been men not in the Sailors' Home.

Your correspondent, together with several others who have come to Hongkong, was paid off in Shanghai, but as the crew had signed three years' articles it must have been with his own consent, if not at his own request. Why did he consent? But this suggests another question, and a more serious one, why did the British Consul in Shanghai, knowing as he must have done the very poor prospects of re-shipment in Shanghai, allow him to be paid off? Surely this is a matter that calls for investigation.—I am yours faithfully,

J. H. FRANCE.

H.E. THE GOVERNOR AT ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.

Yesterday morning His Excellency Sir Matthew Nathan, accompanied by his A.D.C. and the Rev. Father Maria, visited St. Joseph's College. On arrival the students sang a hymn of welcome and presented him with the following amusing address:—"To Sir Matthew Nathan, K.C.M.G., Governor of Hongkong, Your Excellency.—We the students of St. Joseph's College heartily unite in a chorus of welcome and congratulation to Your Excellency, on your first appearance in this establishment. It is hardly necessary to remind Your Excellency that we are utterly incapable of getting up an address equal to your merit and dignity, but we indulge in the hope that you will be so good as to take the will for the deed. We recognise in Your Excellency, not merely the head of His Majesty's Government entitled to our loyalty; not merely the benevolent Governor of Hongkong well deserving of our affection. We see especially in Your Excellency a true-hearted Educationist, solicitous not only for the wealthy few, but for the great mass of the rising generation. On our behalf we rest the strongest hopes of our future success, and trust we shall ever prove worthy of your support and confidence. As regards our scholastic acquirements we have but little to say. While we believe that some progress has been made in our studies, so far as immediate practical utility is concerned, we cannot conceal from ourselves and Your Excellency the fact that further knowledge and practice are not only possible, but would be advantageous. This splendid building on a very desirable site and so well adapted for its purpose as an educational establishment, represents rather our aspirations and the expectations of our friends than the extent of our knowledge. It will be gratifying to Your Excellency to know that, with particular pleasure, we look forward to the Prize Distribution. We believe that prizes like steadfast labour and habits of clear perception are things to be desired as tending to our higher development, and ought therefore to be encouraged as one of the most valuable means of education. And on this ground we desire to express our earnest hope that, with your accustomed kindness and courtesy, you will not allow any other engagement to stand in the way of your coming to preside and distribute the prizes. We wish your Excellency may have many years to live in happiness and prosperity. We feel that any attempt on our part to acknowledge in a fitting manner the favour conferred must be unsuccessful, and by very far fall short of our feelings. However please accept our humble thanks for your goodness and kindness and believe us to remain in the sentiments of the deepest gratitude. The Pupils of St. Joseph's College.

His Excellency, in thanking the boys for their address, said he would not fail to come back on the 17th to distribute the prizes on the occasion of the closing of the college for the Christmas vacation.
Sir Matthew then made an inspection of the college and expressed himself as well pleased with the arrangements throughout, also with the prompt answers of the boys, he questioned on various subjects. He secured for them a half holiday before leaving, and on taking his departure the college choir struck up "God save the King." The boys were drawn up outside the door in two lines, and as His Excellency walked between them he was heartily cheered, and cheered again until he was out of sight.

FOOTBALL.

Followers of football were sorely disappointed when they learnt that the match arranged between the Hongkong Football Club and the R.G.A. was not to take place at Happy Valley yesterday. A fair number of spectators were waiting on the field, but for some unaccountable reason only a few of the players turned up.

This afternoon a Rugby match, H.K.F.C. v. Naval team, will be played at Happy Valley. Kick-off at 4.30 p.m. The following will play for the Club:—T. C. Gray, full back; J. Thompson, A. O. F. Chard forwards.

A match was played at Happy Valley between teams representing the Vengeance and the Tamar yesterday afternoon. The Vengeance team played five men short, but succeeded in defeating their opponents by two goals to nil, Burness and Gilbert being the kickers.

The following team will represent the Vengeance in their match against Taikoo to-day:—Marchant, goal; Gardner and Josephs, backs; Plummer, Keith and Cornick, halves; Bevel, Keywood, Burness, Gilbert and Humphries, forwards.

HARMSTON'S CIRCUS.

After a most successful run of nearly one month Harmston's Circus will bring its season to a close with a grand matinee this afternoon and a gala performance this evening, and it believes those who have been unable to visit the show hitherto to avail themselves of this last opportunity of seeing what is really a splendid and up-to-date Circus. The tents, one and all, are well put on—in fact some of them are a move the average, and speak well for the excellent management of Mr. Robert Love, and those responsible for the other departments of this extensive concern. We learn that the Circus will shortly embark for the Philippines where we trust it will be attended with the same success as that accorded in Hongkong. Last night there was an eight-round boxing contest between Yung Chien and J. Marryat. It was won by Marryat. In the ten round contest Mr. Amble beat Delaney. The management announce that a handsome bicycle will be given away to-day. Any purchasers of tickets from $1 upwards are entitled to a chance.

AN APPEAL.

THE SISTERS who direct St. ANTONIO'S CONVENT at Macao will be very thankful to Shopkeepers, Linen-drillers, Clothiers and Tailors in Hongkong, Macao, and elsewhere who will send to them remnants of material, books of patterns no longer used, and any pieces of cloth, no matter how small, of which they cannot make use.

Those who send will thus, at no cost to themselves, afford the numerous hands in the convent, especially the little ones, opportunity for useful occupation; for pieces of cloth, even of a square inch, can be stitched together and very pretty pieces of work made out of cloth that would otherwise be thrown away. These articles are bought by charitable persons, and the Sisters are thus helped to keep up their very large establishment, which is maintained by the gifts of friends and in great measure by the earnings of the girls themselves, who lead by no means an idle life within the convent walls.

THE UMPIRE.

Smithy sprawled lazily on the grassy cliff. A gentle breeze blew in from the south, and the glassy, sunlit sea was dotted with lagoon transport boats.

Gazing within a radius afforded by the loose net that Smithy held, was the major's horse, in the scolded mustard-coloured grad that the soldier affects on manoeuvres. Smithy had followed both Red and Blue forces, for Major Somebody or other, whose self he was, had been umpiring.

“If,” said Smithy, reflectively, “if we'd fought with umpires in South Africa, who do you think would have won?”

“I can't tell you,” he went on without waiting for an answer. “Take Ladysmith. Why, if that job had been part of manoeuvres, you'd have seen twenty little umpires come strutting up in their Panniers and Napiers and Baby Pongos, blinding the Boers with dust, and they'd have had a conference on Wagon Hill and then they'd've sent for George White.”

“Good mornin’,” Sir George, they'd say. “Fine weather we're havin’! My fifty-horse-power Daimler put up a dozen brace between here and Colenso, they'd say. Then Sir George would talk about the shooting!”

“Oh, by the way,” says the umpire, “what about Ladysmith?”

“Not about it,” says Sir George.

“Well,” says one of the umpires, polishin’ his motor-goggles, “I think you're out of action, don't you?”

“Sir George gets huffy.”

“Nothin’ of the sort,” he says; “I can hold Ladysmith for months and months, he says.”

“Then all the umpires laff, except one with spectacles.”

“Pardon me,” says this one, “you don't seem to understand that the strategic defensive calls for the preponderance of the tactical defensive.”

“You dry up,” says Sir George nastily; “I'm going to hold Ladysmith as long as we've got boots to eat.”

“But he'd have had to give way before the umpires, and Ladysmith would have gone in.”

There was certainly a grain of wisdom in Smithy's deductions.

“Then,” went on the great man, “take Colenso. The umpires would've gone up to Botha—no, I don't know how they'd have got to him unless they went up in a balloon—and there would be my hold Botha directin’ the fire of the First Loyal Spambobs. ‘Cease fire,’ shout the umpires, and Botha stares. ‘Not for?’ he says.”

“You're defeated,” says the umpire, and then goes on affably: “What sort of a season are you havin’ in this part of the world? Nice weather for the crops. By the bye, as I was comin’ along in my 34-horse power Wolsley, I put up twenty brace.”

“Then Botha gets mad.”

“What the howling rascal do you mean by sayin’ that I'm defeated, when I've got a position here that I could hold for a month of Sundays?” he says, as wild as anything.

“The umpire gets very stiff.”

“I'd have you know, General, that you're not allowed to hold this position.”

“Why?” says Botha, very astonished.

“Because it's out of bounds,” says the umpire—and so we'd have got Colenso.

Smithy stopped to watch a bare-footed sailor, with two little yellow and red flags, wave erratic arms seaward.

He spelt out the message, having some knowledge of the semaphore.

“Make—your—own—arrangements,” spelt Smithy, and added with a dry laugh, “That's just the blamin’ thing the umpires don't allow for.”

“I remember, once,” he continued with unaccustomed animation, “when we were messing about after De Wet. You know the sort of thing—twenty miles a day in every direction. Every night we used to come up to the place where De Wet was the night before. There was half a battalion of ours, one squadron of scallywags, two squadrons of bushrangers, and a couple of pom-poms.”

“Well, one day, when we wasn't exactly lookin’ for De Wet, De Wet was lookin’ for us, and you can bet he found us!”

“Before we knew where we was he'd got our horses, and we were all lyin’ flat on our chests sayin’ the little ants that had as much cover as they wanted.”

“We'd been shootin’ away for about an hour, and it was easy to see we were pretty well surrounded.”

“There was a sort of general in charge of our three columns, and he was twenty miles away with the other two.”

“Bimeby we got a helio message from him—‘Make the best arrangements you can; I can't get to you under six hours.’ So our old man, and the scallywag captain—Somebody's Horse it was—an’ the Australian major, had a sort of council of war underneath a waterbarrel.

“Well, gentlemen,” says our old man, “I'm afraid we're pipped,” he says; “rightly speakin’,” he says; “we ought to shove up the white flag,” he says; “but I give everybody fair warnin’,” he says; “that I'll shoot the man who as much as blows his nose with a white handkerchief,” he says, with a wicked laugh.

“And the scallywag and the bushranger and the little gunner who had just crawled up, said, ‘Hear, hear!’

“Then our old man goes on: ‘The main body of the enemy is in a donga three hundred yards to our left,’ he says, ‘and we've got to get that donga,’ says our old man.”

Smithy's eyes were far away.

“Bimeby,” he went on, “I heard the old man shouting, ‘Concentrate your fire on that donga,’ he says; then after a bit, when the dust begins to go up, he yells, ‘Fix bayonets!’

Smithy turned and looked mo squarley in the face.

“What would the umpire have said?” he asked. “Why, we'd have been bloomin’ well decimated—but we wasn't. The Boers didn't wait for the bayonet—they pushed off, and we got away with the guns.”

“There's only one kind of war,” said Smithy sagely, “and that's the kind that hurts. When the chap that's playin’ the real game makes a misdeal or revokes, there's no re-shuffle. If he puts up a big bluff and it comes off, he's a great man, and gets his picture in the papers. If it don't come off, why—”

Smithy's silence was eloquent.

“Umpires in war,” he went on, “are food and foot and fingers—fingers for holdin’ on to positions where, rightly, you should ‘a’ been kicked off.”

“I know regiments that could never be put out of action unless every man was killed—what's an umpire goin’ to do with a lot like that?” he demanded. Somewhere down on the shingly beach below us a stentorian voice roared: “Smith!”

Smith rose with alacrity.

“Comin’, sir,” he shouted. Then, as he led his officer's charger seaward, he turned.

“He's an umpire,” he said with a jerk of his thumb toward the beach, “but he's a very decent chap as a human bein’”—EDGAR WALLACE.
